

We started working with Statanly Technologies at the end of 2018. The task was related to the creation of a visual content recommendation system based on machine learning algorithms. From the very beginning, the team involved in the implementation of the project showed great interest and attention to detail. A lot of questions, suggestions for improvement, as well as clarifications of various nuances allowed us to be sure that the end results will satisfy the demands of our company. And indeed, after a few months, as defined in the terms of reference, we received a recommendation system that meets all the requirements. I would especially like to note the expertise, experience and creativity of the team with which we worked. Later, we have repeatedly contacted Statanly Technologies to implement additional system options.
